

Italy

Our extensive programme to Italy stretches from Milan and the Italian lakes in the north to Puglia – at Italy’s heel, in the south. It is best suited to independent, seasoned travellers who are looking for something different and want to feel closer to the sort of relationship that exists between Italians and their irresistible country.

Historical and archaeological sites stand side-by-side with open countryside, extensive vineyards and forests, and a long and varied coastline. We believe the experience is enriched even further if you have the chance to get a taste of the ‘real Italy’, away from conventional tourist enclaves.

Milan, the Italian Lakes & Lombardy

Lombardy offers beautiful landscapes, grand villas, ancient castles, and the three great lakes of Garda, Como and Maggiore. Milan, the region capital, is also the global capital of fashion and design.

See pages 12-17

Venice & the Veneto

The landscape of the Veneto varies from flat and unappealing to mountainous and breathtaking.

See pages 18-23

Florence & Tuscany

Dotted with vineyards-covered hills and walled towns which form the backdrop for classic Renaissance art.

See pages 24-29

Rome & Lazio

Full of monuments to ancient glories and reminders of hundreds of years of civilization, Rome is timeless and eternal.

See pages 30-33

Lecce & Puglia

Located on Italy’s heel, Puglia has coastlines along both the Adriatic and Ionian Seas and a history dating back to the civilization of Magna Grecia.

See pages 34-39

Matera & Basilicata

Matera is one of the most unusual and memorable towns in Italy. It lies in a small canyon carved out by the Gravina River and famed for its extensive cave-dwellings ‘the Sassi’.

See pages 40-41

Amalfi Coast & Campania

This region is steeped in Etruscan and Greek remains, the most important of which are found at Paestum.

See pages 42-47

SUNVIL WEBSITE

Within our brochure you will find a good selection of properties, suggested itineraries and regional information that Sunvil offer. However, for additional properties, photos, itineraries and general information on Italy please visit our website www.sunvil.co.uk/italy

