

Kastri Beach, Southeast Pelion

The Pelion

Little wonder that the ancient gods chose the Pelion – home of the Centaurs (Kentavros) – as the place for their weddings and celebrations; for here is a near-perfect synthesis of mountain, forest and sea.

Fresh and green year-round, the peninsula is dominated by mountains reaching a height of some 1600 metres and covered with pine, oak, fir, plane and chestnut. Views are dramatic, particularly on the northeast where mountains plunge dizzily to the sea. The western side is gentler – its hills covered with olive trees and shrubs – yet still remarkably attractive.

Pelion's preserved mountain villages are a joy. Clinging to wooded slopes high above the sea, they share a unique architectural tradition and are amongst the most beautiful in Greece. The old stone-built mansions, with their grey slate roofs and overhanging balconies, blend with their surroundings. Often the only sounds are a babbling brook or birdsong. Everywhere are trees, shrubs, plants and flowers.

The coastline hides some excellent beaches, often of a coarse sand/fine shingle which makes for excellent swimming in clear water. Foreign tourism is still fairly undeveloped, and the small seaside villages – quiet for most of the year, busy over weekends and local holiday periods – remain reassuringly Greek!

Because Pelion is still pretty virgin territory it does not have the touristic infrastructure of more established areas. Money exchange and ATMs can be hard to find (so take a good supply of Euros with you); the bus service limited and English not universally spoken. Excursions are also limited and run only subject to numbers (Afissos is the best base for organised trips).

With all this in mind, car hire is strongly recommended. If you don't mind some very winding roads, it would be a pity not to discover the whole of Pelion. Even Meteora and Delphi are within reach.

A visit to Pelion will refresh the palate of even the most frequent Greek traveller. It did ours, and that takes some doing!

Our chosen areas...

Western Pelion Afissos • Lefokastro • Kalamos

Transfer time 1½-2 hours

The western side of the Pelion has lovely views (and gorgeous sunsets) over the Pagasitic Gulf to the mountains of the mainland. Although heavily wooded, like all Pelion, the west is more typically Mediterranean: here olive and cypress predominate over oak and chestnut.

Afissos is a small, quite smart little resort village. It is known for the clarity of its sea, and boasts three good beaches. It is said that Jason called in here for freshwater supplies before setting sail on his epic journey.

The village has a small fishing harbour at its entrance. Its long seafront is where most of the dozen restaurants are to be found, along with a few cafés, mini-markets and bakery. At its heart is a shady central square with attendant church.

Gently shelving beaches lie to either side, a mix of fine shingle and coarse sand. The longer offer (in season) watersports and sunbeds, and there is a scuba-diving and a sailing school. Afissos is the best place if you wish to see a little more of Pelion without hiring a car as it has a reasonable bus service to Volos and (last year) excursions ran to Meteora and 'around the Pelion'. Popular with locals, Afissos can be busy during weekends and Greek holiday periods.

An hour's beautiful walk (or a ten minute drive) south along the narrow country lanes through the olive groves brings you to Lefokastro. This seaside hamlet is pretty as a postcard – a delightfully tranquil wooded bay, with a ribbon of houses fronting the water and a safe fine-shingle beach. It has three local tavernas and a small shop (usually open from mid-June to mid-September).

A few kilometres to the south Kalamos is also a peaceful retreat. It has a shingle beach (one of the longest on the gulf side), some four tavernas when in season and a small shop.

Both Lefokastro and Kalamos offer an authentically Greek 'away from it all' holiday in unspoilt green surroundings, with good swimming and few foreign visitors. The countryside is hilly and full of olive trees, so offers fine walking (gentler than in the east).

To make the most of a stay here, car or motorboat hire is recommended, especially in the early or late season when not all the tavernas or shops may be open.

South-East Pelion Katigiorgis • Platanias

Transfer time 2½ hours

The wooded hills of the south-eastern corner of Pelion are less steep than the more mountainous north and the area more sparsely populated. This is good news for visitors because, coupled with the distance from Volos, it means it is lessens the Greek holiday crowds who would otherwise flock to the beaches and coves here (undoubtedly amongst the peninsula's loveliest). Good walking is again a feature of the area.

There are limited places to stay, the pick of which are the small seaside hamlets of Katigiorgis and Platanias. We have heard the former called Kati-gorgeous as it is so pretty! Comprising simply a compact but delightfully sandy beach facing Skiathos – the bay enclosed by rocky arms sheltering the village fishing boats – and a cluster of houses, its two tavernas are known for fresh fish. There is also a café and a minimarket – all you should need for a complete escape. Some fine beaches lie in either direction, ranging from tiny coves to longer stretches of sand, and can be found on foot (walkers only) or by car. For a change of scene, last year a water-taxi ran to Skiathos.

Platanias has more to it, with some half-dozen restaurants and local shops along its waterfront promenade, engendering a true Greek village atmosphere. The town beach here is perfectly fine, but a 15 minute walk south brings you to beautiful Mikro beach. Equally lovely Kastri beach to the north is a 10 minute drive, although walkers will enjoy the lovely 90 minutes on foot. Kastri can be reached by water-taxi, which also runs to busy Skiathos just across the strait. Another fine walk starts from Platanias up to the traditional village of Promyri some 7kms in the hills.

In either village car hire is recommended to further discover the area as the bus service here is limited.

Afissos

North-East Pelion Damouchari

Transfer time 2-2½ hours

Eastern Pelion is unspoiled, little-known and supremely beautiful. So thickly forested is it, and so steep, that, were it not for the glistening Aegean below, it could be a cross between an ancient British woodland and the Alps!

The beaches are stunning and the swimming lovely in a clean open sea, but this can be lively, so the more sheltered western Pelion may be better for children or non-swimmers.

You would be hard pressed to find a prettier spot anywhere than traffic-free Damouchari, just a couple of kms to the south of the small resort of Agios Ioannis. This tiny hamlet really is a gem, comprising a beautiful natural bay, a ruined Venetian castle, a wide white-pebble beach, four tavernas and a couple of minimarkets. Quiet and secluded (although there will be plenty of day-visitors in August), this is one of the most delightful spots on the entire peninsula.

Lefokastro Apartments Lefokastro

- Self Catering
- Apartments for 2
- Early Booking Offer

This characterful pair of apartments enjoy an idyllic location in the corner of peaceful Lefokastro bay. They are directly on the sea and, as one would expect, have magnificent views.

The apartments are open-plan and comprise a twin bedroom, a living room with a full sized sofa-bed and a kitchen area containing 3-ring mini-oven and fridge, and a tiled shower room (with hairdryer) accessed from both rooms. The top floor has a covered front balcony accessed from both rooms; the ground floor has a spacious open sun terrace to the front with umbrella, table and chairs. Both apartments are simply furnished in a traditional older style. Thick stone walls help keep the house cool, and fans are also provided.

Views from either balcony or terrace are lovely, gazing across the bay to the wooded coastline winding south and distant mountains. Access to the top floor apartment is via a rough narrow path (take a torch) and may not be suitable for anyone with limited mobility.

Although each apartment has space for a child, we sell them for couples only due to the open-plan design.

As with all our properties in this secluded area, a car or boat would be recommended, especially at the beginning or end of the season when not all tavernas may be open.

Lefokastro Beach Cottage Lefokastro

- Self Catering
- House for 2
- Air Conditioning
- Early Booking Offer

This beautifully modernised fisherman's cottage is just 10 metres from the sea at the start of Lefokastro's beach.

The house is open-plan and air conditioned (included). The living room contains sofas and tv, with tiled shower room off and an archway leading to the fully fitted modern kitchen with electric oven, hob and full fridge.

Steps lead up from the living room to the sleeping gallery above with a double platform bed.

The house is very nicely restored and furnished, the thick stone walls and wooden ceiling keeping it cool and combining well with the modern comfortable furnishings, high quality fittings and tasteful decor. There is no front terrace or balcony due to the age and location of the house but a large picture window in the living room does look to the sea. Between the two is the narrow beach road, a cul-de-sac.

The rear garden patio has a BBQ, space for sunbathing and a seating area shaded by a pergola. There is natural shade on the beach to the front provided by tamarisk trees.

Small Motor Boat Hire, Western Pelion

For clients staying in Lefokastro, Afissos or Kalamos the hire of a small motorboat is recommended. Don't worry if you've never driven one before – no special licence is required and full instruction will be given.

Price per 15hp boat for 3 days £144 (all season).

Boats can normally be moored in your resort village but, in the event of windy weather, sometimes the supplier will moor them elsewhere overnight and deliver in the morning.

These boats are strictly for exploration of the local coastline and nearby villages for shopping, finding a beach to yourself or simply for lunch!

Boats are for up to 4 persons and must be booked for 3-day periods, either Sat am to Mon pm or Tue am to Thu pm. The price includes all necessary safety equipment and insurance for third party and weather damage. Fuel is paid locally

– c.£15-£20 a day.

Prebooking is recommended due to the limited supply of boats locally. Please note that if you do not use the boat for any reason (e.g. adverse weather) no refund can be given – however our supplier will always try to arrange alternative day(s). For this reason we would recommend you do not leave boat hire until the final days of your holiday.

Maistrali Hotel Afissos

■ 3 Star ■ Bed & Breakfast ■ Air Conditioning ■ Wi-Fi

This charming small hotel is the nicest in Afissos. It overlooks the sea at the southern end of the village, just before Abovos beach. The small road below runs only between the two, but may be busy in the daytime during Greek holiday periods.

There are only eight rooms here and two family suites. All are front-facing and have fine sea views from their balcony. A couple are set slightly back. All, too, possess air conditioning (small local charge), tv and ensuite shower room with wc (one suite also has a half-bath).

Rooms are twin-bedded (some can take an extra bed for a child) and the suites comprise twin front bedroom, with a smaller twin to the rear for children. Wooden ceilings, tiled floors and cozy furnishings complete the picture.

The ground floor contains a beautifully decorated small bar, open-plan lounge and a terrace restaurant. Breakfast and dinner can be taken on the sea-facing terrace to the front. The hotel offers Wifi at a local charge.

The Maistrali has an intimate atmosphere and, being within a minute's walk of both beach and Afissos' waterfront, is a wonderful spot from which to make the most of this pretty village.

Half Board: £116 per week (child under 12y £58).

Agnanti Apartments Afissos

■ Self Catering ■ Studios for 2/3 ■ Apartments for 2/4 ■ Air Conditioning
■ Free Wifi ■ Early Booking Offer

If you are looking for the best in Afissos, with view to match, you have found it! The Agnanti Apartments combine very high standards of comfort with the service of a small hotel, including reception and breakfast (if required). They are central, just a couple of minutes' walk up from the waterfront, although their elevated location means that they would not be suitable for anyone with walking difficulties (access is via a fairly steep village street or a number of steps).

The studios are twin-bedded (can be put together) and possess air-conditioning, a fitted kitchenette area with mini-oven and fridge, a tiled shower/wc (with hairdryer), a tv, direct-dial telephone and a balcony to the front with lovely views (and sunsets) over the village rooftops directly across the gulf. Room safes are available at a small local charge (c. €2 a day). The studios are spacious and all possess a sofa-bed.

The apartments are similar, with the addition of a large living room, also air conditioned, containing a full-size double sofa-bed.

Recently fully refurbished to a high modern standard, all studios and apartments are well equipped, cool and very tastefully furnished. The ground floor houses a communal sitting area where breakfast can be provided at a local charge. Wifi is also provided free of charge.

Seralis Hotel Koropi near Afissos

■ 3 Star ■ Bed & Breakfast ■ Swimming Pool ■ Air Conditioning
 ■ Car included from Airport ■ Free WiFi

The Seralis is a very friendly small hotel in the west coast hamlet of Koropi, between the larger seaside villages of Kala Nera (3 kms) and Afissos (2 kms). With only 8 rooms here, and lush green countryside all around, the hotel engenders an intimate atmosphere, and offers plenty of space in which to relax and enjoy the pretty gardens and attractive pool area.

Rooms are for singles or couples only, neatly furnished and well equipped. All possess double bed, air conditioning, sat tv, minibar/fridge, tea-making equipment, safety deposit box, hairdryer, tiled shower room and covered balcony with country, pool, sea or mountain views. The hotel is built on different levels, but if many steps are a potential problem we can ask for a room near reception where you can park nearby.

Above the pool the hotel's snack bar serves drinks and light meals throughout the day.

Long Paradisos beach is 500m away (a 5-6 minute walk), which in season has sunbeds for hire and two restaurants. For brighter lights and a good choice of tavernas and small shops, Afissos and Kala Nera can be reached in around 5 minutes by car. The famous mountain village of Milies is only a 10-15 minute drive.

The hotel is exceptionally cared for by the obliging owner, Maria Seralidou, who looks after her guests equally well in the best tradition of small and friendly Greek hotels. Maria is a good cook - so half board may be an idea - and the hotel's rich breakfast buffet includes many home-made specialities.

Half Board: supplement £117 per week.

Aktaion Hotel Kalamos

■ 3 Star ■ Bed & Breakfast ■ Air Conditioning
 ■ Free WiFi

At the far (northern) end of Kalamos bay, this small hotel has the sea to the front and a river to one side. It makes for a restful retreat in green natural surroundings with lovely views over the Gulf and the twisting southern coastline to Trikeri island.

The ten rooms here are housed in two buildings designed in the traditional Pelion style. Ground or first floor, with attractive decor and furnishings (again modern but with a traditional flavour) all possess twin beds (can be placed together to make a double), air conditioning, tv, fridge, tiled shower room, room safe, hairdryer and sea view balcony or garden patio.

Away from the rooms, in front of the sea, is a well-liked cafe and restaurant serving home-cooked Pelion and Greek specialities. Complimentary wifi is available here.

The hotel has placed sunbeds on their small beach, but a couple of minutes' walk brings you to the start of the better main beach and another taverna or two.

The Aktaion is ideal for motorboat hire as you can moor on the river right next to the hotel. As there is no coastal road to spoil this part of Pelion, a boat is actually more practical than a car in many ways, and certainly more enjoyable. From here you can easily putter along to Horto and Milina to the south, and Lefokastro and Afissos to the north, discovering plenty of little-known beaches en route.

Half Board: £78 per week.

Early Booking Offer

There are 15 studios in total. Most contain a double and a single bed – and all possess kitchenette with 3-ring mini-oven and fridge, air-conditioning (included), sat tv, shower room and a generous covered balcony from which to admire the wonderful views over the gardens to the bay below or across the open sea to Skiathos. Furnishings are typically neat and simple, being mainly of pine.

To the front at slightly lower level is the swimming pool (10m x 5m, depth 1.0-2.4m) with furnished terrace surrounds.

Other beaches can be found by following a small track to the south, the first being secluded Vlahorema (15 mins), then longer Vromoneri (a further 15 mins).

Due to the elevated location we would not consider Avra suitable for anyone with mobility problems.
