

OUR DESTINATIONS

The Greek mainland, bordered in the north-west by Albania and The Republic of Macedonia, and Bulgaria and Turkey in the northwest, stretches its mountainous fingers southwards into the Mediterranean Sea.

On the western coast of Greece, the Ionian Sea laps around its namesake olive clad islands while, off its eastern shoreline, the Aegean Sea boast three groups of islands – the Sporades, the Cyclades and the Dodecanese.

Well over two thousand islands lie within Greek waters, yet only a hundred or so are inhabited. Each island has its own unique history, character and charm; each in turn adds to the overall beauty of the country of Greece, just as its mythical gods and goddesses its philosophes, writers, mathematicians and scientists have contributed to the culture, language and knowledge bank of the world over many centuries.

GREEK MAINLAND

Where history began and myths were born. Our holidays here are centred on the picturesque seaside village of Sivota, along the Epirus coast, and in the legendary Mani region of the Peloponnese. Perfect for those wishing to discover the real Greece away from the crowds.

CORFU

An undulating interior of olive and pine-clad hillsides hiding hamlets and villages. A beautiful coastline of small coves and large beaches. A capital of stunning Venetian architecture.

PAXOS

On an island 7 miles by 3 miles you are never far from anywhere. An undulating landscape of silver olives, many sheltered coves and pretty fishing villages – Paxos offers an enchanting escape from the crowds.

ANTIPAXOS

The tiny satellite island, just one mile off Paxos, offers a rarely found Robinson Crusoe experience. Sandy beaches, valleys of vineyards and just four tavernas.

LEFKAS

Lefkas will attract explorers to her green, mountainous interior and those wanting peaceful seclusion close to her beautiful beaches.

MEGANISSI

A beautiful, unspoilt island just off Lefkas' east coast. Deserted bays and a simple village lifestyle will appeal to those wanting to forget the outside world.

ITHACA

Ithaca has remained untouched by tourism. A holiday on Ithaca is for those who seek a relaxed break in a friendly environment.

KEFALONIA

Kefalonia, the largest of the Ionian islands, is popular for its superb beaches and stunning scenery. Kefalonia caters for both the explorer and the seeker of variety.

SKOPELOS

Rich, green hillsides of pine and olive sweep down to enticing beaches. Skopelos is an island for those wanting to explore by boat, car and on foot and to have a wide choice of intimate waterfront tavernas.

ALONISSOS

Slow and quiet, Alonissos appeals more to the escapist who wants the simple pleasures of a friendly community, unspoilt surroundings, deserted beaches and good tavernas.

SKIATHOS

Skiathos offers a colourful variety of spectacular beaches, well organised watersports, good Aegean food, relaxed or vibrant nightlife in town, wonderful scenery and a cosmopolitan atmosphere.

CRETE

An island suited to those who want a more sophisticated choice of holiday activities. An extensive coastline of fishing villages, towns and beaches and a dramatic interior of unique beauty.

CYPRUS

An island of great diversity with something to please everyone from nature at its wildest to historical sites of great magnitude as well as a myriad of activities and international cuisine.
