

Kefalonia

Kefalonia is the largest of the Ionian group of islands. Lying midway between Corfu and Zakynthos, it is an island that rewards exploration many times over with its dramatic scenery, distinctive traditions, fine beaches, and unspoiled way of life. The sheer variety Kefalonia offers the visitor is one reason why so many return.

The Kefalonian landscape is stunning. Mountains soar to over 1600 metres; beaches range from long stretches of the finest golden sand to tiny white-pebble coves; pine forests swathe the hillsides; whilst in the fertile valleys, olive and citrus are cultivated. The whole is lapped by the bluest of seas. Like all the Ionian islands, Kefalonia is at its best in the springtime and early summer when the wild flowers are literally brilliant.

There is so much to see on the island that car hire is almost essential at some stage as the local bus services are limited. Sleepy Agia Efimia on the north-east coast remains authentically Greek. It has some fine tavernas and a good choice of sheltered, pretty pebble beaches nearby. It is close to the small town of Sami, from where the ferry-boat runs to Ithaca.

The north-western coastal road reveals dizzy vistas of cliff and sea, the classic view being of glistening Myrto Beach far below. (Watch out for goats on the road here!).

Assos in the north-west is another photo-stop with village, small beach and crumbling Venetian Fortress on the pine clad hillside opposite guarding the pretty bay. On the northern tip is the chocolate-box fishing village of Fiscardo, facing Ithaca.

The south is dominated by Mount Aenos, the highest peak on the island, although the coastal views here are gentler. A myriad of small villages skirts the lower slopes of the mountain, and the road eventually brings you to the burgeoning resort of Scala with its long sandy beach.

The capital, Argostoli, is a modern, bustling town with wide streets lined with palms, a wonderful main square and some excellent restaurants. The museum here is worth visiting. Kefalonia's second town (and Argostoli's arch rival), Lixouri, lies across the strait and is best reached by one of the frequent ferry boats which ply between the two.

Elsewhere there are underground caves to explore, hidden monasteries to seek out, and numerous simple village tavernas to sample (along with the excellent local wine!).

Of course, beaches are never far away, but we stress that Kefalonia should be explored to get the most from your holiday.

Our chosen areas

North East Kefalonia Karavomilos, Sami & Agia Efimia

Transfer time 1 hour

Towards the southern end of wide Sami Bay on Kefalonia's north east coast, the tiny hamlet of Karavomilos comprises simply a pair of authentic local tavernas, a mini-market, a church and a (very good) bakery. Here you will find one of the island's most interesting and beautiful attractions, the Melissani Lake. Discovered when the roof to the cave hiding the lake below collapsed, we'd recommend the small boat tour to learn about the water phenomenon in which sinkholes from the coastline of Argostoli somehow deliver water underground to the lake.

From Karavomilos a pleasant 15 minute walk (1 km) above the sea brings you to the larger port of Sami, which has a wide choice of tavernas, cafes and shops, and a very nice little shingle beach just beyond. Famous Antisamos beach is 4 kms up and over the forested headland, a pleasant one hour walk. From Sami ferries run to Ithaca in just 30 minutes, making a day trip easy.

7 kms to the north of Karavomilos, at the top of the bay, is the village of Agia Efimia. Between the two lies a string of pristine white-pebble beaches shelving into a multi-hued turquoise sea.

With a car Karavomilos is a fine base from which to explore the whole of the north. Good road links mean that Argostoli can be reached in under an hour, and the west coast in around 20 minutes. Local exploration is enjoyable on foot and our representative will be pleased to lend you a published local walking guide. One popular trail takes you across the island from Agia Efimia in the east to stunning Myrtos beach on the west coast - one of the most photographed beaches in Greece.

Lourdass

North Kefalonia Fiscardo & Assos

Transfer time 90 minutes

The north of Kefalonia is a land of rolling, heavily wooded hills (cypress and pine predominating here over olive), gleaming white-pebble beaches, and some of the island's prettiest villages.

Fiscardo is most picturesque and upmarket. Located on the island's northeastern tip, it gazes dreamily to Ithaca. The pastel colours of the old fishermen's houses along the waterfront - now housing restaurants, smart cafes and small shops - contrast with bright splashes of bougainvillea, whilst fishing boats jostle with yachts for the prime moorings. Inevitably Fiscardo gets busy in the high season.

There are some lovely beaches, such as beautiful Emblissi and a selection of smaller pebble beaches and coves to the south reached on foot or by boat. In the other direction lies peaceful Foki Bay some 20 minutes' from the harbour.

Walkers will enjoy the three marked trails now available from Fiscardo, which are downloadable from footpaths-of-erisos.gr/en/

From Fiscardo you can visit Ithaca and also Lefkas for the day. Car hire is recommended to explore the beautiful northern part of the island and we can prebook this with a local supplier which saves hefty delivery charges from Argostoli. But many visitors are happy to stay put; perhaps renting a small motorboat to explore the coastline and coves during the day before deciding which harbour restaurant to be tempted by that evening.

Fiscardo

20 kms to the south, tiny Assos lies far below the road running above the steep north west coast. For such a well known beauty spot it remains remarkably unspoiled. Its setting is a picture. Built above a horse-shoe shaped bay, it has a fishing harbour to one side and a pebble beach to the other. The bay is a natural harbour and guarded by the remains of the Venetian fortress which crowns the hillside opposite.

Despite the earthquake of 1953, Assos has managed to retain some of its old houses and facades. The village today has four tavernas, a couple of cafe-bars and a mini-market - even an ATM. Assos is a reasonable base from which to discover northern Kefalonia - you will need a car, though, as the bus service is very limited.

Assos should appeal to anyone looking for a quiet, away-from-it-all holiday in atmospheric, very pretty surroundings and an unspoiled small village atmosphere.

Agia Efimia

South Kefalonia Lourdas & Katelios

Transfer time 45 minutes

Lourdas, halfway along the south coast, has a long white-sand beach (with some shingle outcrops) which stretches for the best part of a kilometre and shelves gently into the bluest of seas. Sunbeds and small motorboats can be rented, and some half-dozen tavernas and a mini-market are dotted along its length.

A stiff ten minute walk up the hill is the original village of Lourdata. It's an attractive little place, with a traditional plane-shaded square, a handful of tavernas and a small shop or two.

For much of the year Lourdas is very laidback and quiet. Not surprisingly it is popular with locals and the beach can be busy during the day over long weekends and in the peak season but it is long enough for all. Recommended for a relaxed stay near an excellent beach, with some good local tavernas close to hand.

Katelios 14 kms to the east shares Lourdas' lazy charm but is more of a traditional village with an established fishing harbour and an attractive tree-shaded waterfront lined with half-a-dozen authentic tavernas (there are others back from the seafront). These are well known for their fresh fish and popular with locals, always a good sign.

At the head of a broad valley, Katelios has a very nice sand (some shingle) beach to one side called Agia Barbara, which stretches for some 200 metres and shelves very gently so is very good for children. (Children will also love the rock pools to be found nearby). Motorboats can also be hired here and the whole area is a protected turtle nesting zone.

Just inland is the village of Markopoulo. For anyone in the area on 15th August (Assumption Day) it is a must to visit the church to witness the bizarre snake-handling ritual which takes place! The church is built on the site of an old nunnery and legend has it that, when attacked by pirates the nuns prayed to the Virgin Mary to be transformed into snakes to escape. This duly happened and every year this transformation is commemorated by the miraculous 'return' of the snakes (which are actually harmless!).

Both Lourdas and Katelios are, with a car, well placed for further exploration of the south. There are plenty of other good beaches and small inland villages in either direction, culminating in the larger seaside village of Skala almost at the south-eastern tip (the nearest thing there is to a 'resort' here).

Katelios Beach

Apollonia Studios Assos

Of the limited number of holiday properties available for rent in Assos, Apollonia is positioned in one of the most desirable locations – directly above the sea with steps leading down to the village's sand and shingle beach.

Each of the four ground floor studios here is twin bedded with both air conditioning and a ceiling fan, an open-plan kitchenette (rings and fridge), bathroom with shower, hairdryer, safety-deposit box, and a veranda to the front with stunning views over the sea, village and headland. Furnishings are simple and of good quality, and decor tasteful.

One step down from each one's front terrace is a common path for access to the beach and village. There are also some 45 steps at the side up to the access road behind, where your transfer will drop you, (note: you will need to carry your luggage down and up these steps on arrival and departure), and you can park nearby.

A perfect location from which to relax by the sea with all the attractions of this prettiest of Kefalonian villages - beach, a handful of authentic tavernas and couple of small shops – virtually on your doorstep.

Note: Infants are not permitted.

Almyra Hotel Fiscardo

Located on the hillside a 15 minute walk (800m) from Fiscardo harbour, this highly recommended hotel enjoys stunning views over the sea to Ithaca (and, to the side, Lefkas).

The Almyra is not a large hotel – 27 rooms only – and offers an intimate atmosphere, a high level of (very friendly) service, and all the facilities you should need for a really comfortable stay in this most beautiful part of Kefalonia.

The rooms are on the upper two floors, served by a lift. All are double bedded and possess air conditioning, tea/coffee-making facilities, a mini-bar, TV (BBC World), bathroom with bath or shower, hairdryer and good-sized covered balcony. Wifi is free of charge, and safety deposit boxes are provided in reception (also free). Rooms are light and airy with pretty décor and a classic style of furnishing. All have been recently upgraded and refurbished.

Standard rooms are to the side of the hotel and have side sea or garden/hillside views. The Executive rooms are front corner rooms and thus enjoy fine views from their covered balcony to Lefkas in one direction and Ithaca to the other. The Deluxe rooms all face the front and have beautiful views over the green hillside, Fiscardo and the sea to Ithaca from their spacious front terrace. These rooms are larger, with a double sofa-bed for one adult or two smaller children, a bath as well as shower, and upgraded furnishings. The Junior Suites are similar and double-bedded with the bonus of a very big balcony terrace furnished with your own sun beds.

The hotel offers a good buffet breakfast and has a daytime restaurant serving lunch and snacks, and a bar. Picnic baskets can be provided on request for walkers or those renting a motorboat.

Steps lead down to the large freshwater pool below, which measures 15m x 7m (depth 1.0m-2.10m) and has an adjacent children's pool. There is loads of space here on the furnished terrace surrounds, both at pool level and at reception level above. Pool towels are provided at a nominal charge.

A complimentary minibus runs to Fiscardo harbour up to five times daily. The nearest beach is lovely Emblissi, a 15 minute walk down hill. The family who run the hotel are linked to one of Fiscardo's best known restaurants where a discount is offered to hotel guests.

Kaminakia Apartments Fiscardo

Kaminakia is that rare find - quietly located accommodation with a decent swimming pool and gorgeous views, yet just a short 10-15 minute walk above the sea to Fiscardo harbour and two beaches, one in either direction.

Kaminakia comprises twelve units built in two terraced rows. The accommodation is older in style and well kept, with traditional raised platform beds, rough-cast whitewashed walls and high wooden ceilings. The studios (nos. 8-12) are very simple and compact and contain an air conditioned double bedroom, a small bathroom with shower, and a kitchenette (mini-oven, rings, fridge) tucked away in an alcove. All units have a safety deposit box and French doors lead to a large private balcony with stunning views out to sea and the island of Ithaca in the distance.

The 1-bedroom apartments (nos. 1-7) are similar but offer more space with the addition of a living room with two divan-beds on fixed base suitable for a young adult and a smaller child.

The large swimming pool measures 12m x 6m (depth 1.30m-1.65m) and has a children's section. Its surrounding terraces are extensive and furnished, and afford yet more magnificent views. Wifi is available free of charge in the pool area.

Although somewhat old fashioned in style, Kaminakia compensates with its excellent location and views, and the pool area is also lovely. The walk to the harbour is delightful, being above the sea and on the flat, other than the final approach to the property which is up a short (70m) but steep driveway. You may swim from the rocks below and there is also a small pebble beach just 5 minutes walk away. Lovely Foki beach is a 10 minute walk in the other direction.

Fiscardo Panorama Fiscardo

These apartments are on the hillside as you approach Fiscardo, next to the Almyra Hotel. They have fabulously mature gardens leading down to the swimming pool which affords panoramic views from its surrounding terraces.

There are 11 apartments here, housed on three floors. All are tastefully furnished and have air conditioning in the bedrooms, WiFi and a safety deposit box included in the price.

Our allocated studios are on the ground floor with views to the lush gardens around the property. They possess a double or twin-bedded sleeping area, a basic kitchenette for light meals (2 rings, fridge), a tiled shower room, and a balcony or pergola-shaded terrace (some common but each room has its own seating area) with garden views.

Our allocated 1-bedroom apartments are on the first floor and possess a double bedroom plus a separate living room (ceiling fan) containing one or two sofa-beds - two have sea views from their side terrace. One is at the front and has lovely views over the gardens and sea to Ithaca from its spacious covered balcony.

Our top floor 2-bedroom apartment is also front facing and so enjoys the same exquisite views. It comprises a double and a twin bedroom (both AC) plus basic kitchen/diner, bathroom with shower and a spacious sea view covered terrace.

The semi-tropical gardens are a delight, full of flowering Mediterranean shrubs and palm trees. They lead down to a freshwater pool measuring c 80 sq m (depth 1.20m-1.80m) with steps in. It has plenty of space for sun beds around it and those super views.

Both gorgeous Emblissi beach and Fiscardo harbour are around a 15 minute walk down the hill (1 km) but a bit longer back up. A taxi back from the village costs €5.

Gonatas Hotel Agia Efimia

Peacefully located above Agia Efimia bay, a short 10 minute walk to the north of the waterfront and only a minute or two from the pristine white pebbles of Paradissos beach, the Gonatas Hotel occupies a superb position and commands fabulous views across the sea to Sami.

Reception and lounge are on the first floor, reached by a number of steps. The hotel has only 25 rooms, all with air conditioning, Wifi, plasma TV, hairdryer, fridge, shower room and balcony. Furnished in a simple traditional style most of ours possess both a double and a single bed. Sunvil rooms are all front facing and enjoy fine sea views from their balcony.

The swimming pool is of a good size and popular with residents and non-residents alike.

The 10 minute walk to the village is a pleasant one, along a narrow undulating road which runs above the sea passing a number of other tempting pebble coves along the way. From the small harbour onwards you will find a good choice of tavernas, cafes and village shops.

The Gonatas is essentially a comfortable family-run and friendly small hotel, so although service can sometimes tend to the 'Greek' it is always willing. We think the location and views here are unbeatable in the area, and would certainly be the envy of many larger establishments.

Deluxe rooms are larger, all double-bedded and on the top floor of the main building (served by a lift). Facilities in all room types include air conditioning, sat tv with dvd player, free WiFi access, fridge, hairdryer, safety deposit box, iron and board, hydromassage bath and shower, and good-sized balcony with pool and sea views. Athina Beach Hotel Karavomilos, near Sami

Next door to the Ionian Emerald, this modest and overwhelmingly friendly small hotel shares the benefits of this quiet, attractive and very Greek location in the small settlement of Karavomilos, close to Sami. And guests here can share the benefits of the larger hotel's excellent facilities as both hotels are under common ownership.

The rooms are built around a courtyard and are simply furnished in an older style – mostly twin bedded, ours all have a small en suite shower room, air conditioning, fridge, TV, safety deposit box, hairdryer and balcony, with views either over the courtyard, mountains to the rear, or sea to the side (note: sea view rooms are limited and requests cannot always be met).

There is a ground floor lounge (free Wifi here), breakfast room, terrace and bar, and the owner Makis will go out of his way to ensure all his guests are looked after extremely well.

Lourdas Beach Apartments Lourdas

Just back from the middle of Lourdas' fine beach, these apartments boast a magnificent infinity-style swimming pool.

The dozen studio-style apartments here all comprise a twin bedroom opening onto a terrace or balcony (all but one with sea views – see below); a small separate kitchen with fridge, microwave and cooking rings; and a tiled shower room. Some have a sofa-bed for a child in the kitchen area, and all apartments have air-conditioning, WiFi and safety deposit boxes included in the price.

Furnishings and décor are neat and simple in the typical Greek fashion. The apartments are built on rising ground and most are accessed by internal stairs from the upper level at the rear of the building so this may make them unsuited to those with mobility difficulties. But there are a couple of studios without steps (nos. 201 and 206) and two more (nos. 101 and 102) have balcony access directly to the garden, although their front doors are only accessed by stairs.

The apartments will be refurbished for 2020 with new beds, mattresses, furniture and a more modern style of decor.

The beautiful infinity pool to the front is freshwater and measures 13m x 6m (depth 0.95m-1.70m) – cross the small beach road and you are directly on the sand. A handy restaurant is but a minute's walk, and a reasonable choice of others can be found within a few minutes' walk in either direction. A super location in this laid-back little spot, with everything you come on holiday for virtually on your doorstep, and we think very good value.

Anemona Apartments Katelios

The Anemona Apartments are quietly located in rural surroundings a 10-15 minute walk (700m) from Katelios village and beach. They are surrounded by gardens and fruit trees and have a very nice pool to the front.

The seven studios are on the ground and first floors. All are twin-bedded and possess air-conditioning, a kitchenette with light cooking facilities (rings and fridge), tiled shower room, hairdryer, tv and terrace or balcony - the pair of studios on the ground floor have garden and pool views, those on the first floor are couples only and have views to the sea. Added value comes from the fact that there are no additional charges for air-conditioning, WiFi and safety deposit boxes - all are included in the price.

The pair of apartments on the top floor are similar with the addition of a separate living room containing a settee which converts to two full-sized sofa-beds. They have two balconies, each with fine views to the sea over the gardens and countryside.

The swimming pool is set a little away from the accommodation, has furnished terrace surrounds and measures 10m x 5m (depth 1.20m-1.60m).

It is 10-15 minute walk to the village and beach via a rural lane (a torch is provided in each apartment), a slight uphill walk on the way home but nothing very steep.
