

Kefalonia

Kefalonia is the largest of the Ionian group of islands. Lying midway between Corfu and Zakyntos, it is an island that rewards exploration many times over with its dramatic scenery, distinctive traditions, fine beaches, and unspoiled way of life. The sheer variety Kefalonia offers the visitor is one reason why so many return.

The Kefalonian landscape is stunning. Mountains soar to over 1600 metres; beaches range from long stretches of the finest golden sand to tiny white-pebble coves; pine forests swathe the hillsides; whilst in the fertile valleys, olive and citrus are cultivated. The whole is lapped by the bluest of seas. Like all the Ionian islands, Kefalonia is at its best in the springtime and early summer when the wild flowers are literally brilliant.

There is so much to see on the island that car hire is almost essential at some stage as the local bus services are limited. Sleepy Agia Efimia on the north-east coast remains authentically Greek. It has some fine tavernas and a good choice of sheltered, pretty pebble beaches nearby. It is close to the small town of Sami, from where the ferry-boat runs to Ithaca.

The north-western coastal road is currently closed for repair (entailing a detour via the hill villages) but when open it reveals dizzy vistas of cliff and sea, the classic view being of glistening Myrto Beach far below. (Watch out for goats on the road here!).

Assos in the north-west is another photo-stop with village, small beach and crumbling Venetian Fortress on the pine clad hillside opposite guarding the pretty bay. On the northern tip is the chocolate-box fishing village of Fiscardo, facing Ithaca.

The south is dominated by Mount Aenos, the highest peak on the island, although the coastal views here are gentler. A myriad of small villages skirts the lower slopes of the mountain, and the road eventually brings you to the burgeoning resort of Scala with its long sandy beach.

The capital, Argostoli, is a modern, bustling town with wide streets lined with palms, a wonderful main square and some excellent restaurants. The museum here is worth visiting. Kefalonia's second town (and Argostoli's arch rival), Lixouri, lies across the strait and is best reached by one of the frequent ferry boats which ply between the two.

Elsewhere there are underground caves to explore, hidden monasteries to seek out, and numerous simple village tavernas to sample (along with the excellent local wine!).

Of course, beaches are never far away, but we stress that Kefalonia should be explored to get the most from your holiday.

North East Kefalonia Agia Efimia & Sami

Transfer time 1 hour

Friendly Agia Efimia has, over the years, developed from a sleepy backwater into the colourful little port it is today. It has, however, lost none of its welcoming village feel, and enjoys an authentically Greek atmosphere. It is at the northern end of Sami Bay, and looks across to Ithaca.

To either side of the village are a number of dazzlingly white pebble coves which shelve into the clearest of water, making for fine swimming and snorkelling.

The village has plenty of other restaurants and several café-bars lining the long quayside. There is often a flotilla in, adding to the convivial evening atmosphere. Small shops, mini-markets and the village bakery provide most things you should need. Motorboats can be hired and there is a diving school. Organised trips include the islands of Lefkas and Ithaca by boat and an island tour by coach.

Between Agia Efimia and Sami, some 9 kms to the south, is a further string of pristine beaches. Sami is larger and the port from which ferries will take you to Ithaca in as little as 20 minutes. Near Sami is the hamlet of Karavomilos with its four friendly tavernas, shop, good bakery and church. Nearby are the caves of Melissani and Drogarati, one of which is famed for its stalagmites, the other for an underground lake (fun to be rowed across by a local boatman).

Agia Efimia and Sami are fine bases from which to explore the whole of the north. Good road links mean that Argostoli can be reached in under an hour, and the north-west coast in around 20 minutes. Local exploration is enjoyable on foot and our representative will be pleased to lend you a published local walking guide. One popular trail takes you across the island from Agia Efimia in the east to stunning Myrtos beach on the west coast - one of the most photographed beaches in Greece.

North Kefalonia Fiscardo & Assos

Transfer time 90 minutes

The north of Kefalonia is a land of rolling, heavily wooded hills (cypress and pine predominating here over olive), gleaming white-pebble beaches, and some of the island's prettiest villages.

Fiscardo is most picturesque and upmarket. Located on the island's northeastern tip, it gazes dreamily to Ithaca. The pastel colours of the old fishermen's houses along the waterfront – now housing restaurants, smart cafés and small shops – contrast with bright splashes of bougainvillea, whilst fishing boats jostle with yachts for the prime moorings. Inevitably Fiscardo gets busy in the high season.

There are some lovely beaches, such as beautiful Emblissi and a selection of smaller pebble beaches and coves to the south reached on foot or by boat. In the other direction lies peaceful Foki Bay some 20 minutes' from the harbour.

From Fiscardo you can visit Ithaca and also Lefkas for the day. But most visitors are happy to stay put; perhaps renting a small motorboat to explore the coastline and coves during the day before deciding which harbour restaurant to be tempted by that evening.

20 kms to the south, tiny Assos lies far below the road running above the steep north west coast. For such a well known beauty spot it remains remarkably unspoiled.

Its setting is a picture. Built above a horse-shoe shaped bay, it has a fishing harbour to one side and a pebble beach to the other. The bay is a natural harbour and guarded by the remains of the Venetian fortress which crowns the hillside opposite.

Despite the earthquake of 1953, Assos has managed to retain some of its old houses and facades. The village today has four tavernas, a couple of cafe-bars and a mini-market - no ATM though. Assos is a reasonable base from which to discover northern Kefalonia - you will need a car, though, as the bus service is limited.

Assos should appeal to anyone looking for a quiet, away-from-it-all holiday in atmospheric, very pretty surroundings and an unspoiled small village atmosphere.

Car hire note: we can now pre-book car hire in Fiscardo and Assos using a local supplier, which saves hefty delivery charges from Argostoli - please enquire.

South Kefalonia Katelios

Transfer time 45 minutes

The southern coastline of Kefalonia boasts a string of safe sandy beaches, good views to Zakynthos, and the fabulous backdrop of Mount Aenos (at 1628m the highest peak in the Ionian). The area is understandably popular with couples and families alike.

Katelios has a lazy charm. It is a laid-back little village with an established fishing harbour and an attractive tree-shaded waterfront lined with half-a-dozen authentic tavernas (there are more in the village). These are well known for their fresh fish and popular with locals, always a good sign.

At the head of a broad valley, Katelios has a very nice sand (some shingle) beach to one side called Agia Varvara, which stretches for some 200 metres and shelves very gently so is very good for children. (Children will also love the rock pools to be found nearby) The whole area is a protected turtle breeding zone and so visitors are requested to pay a quick visit to the offices of the Katelios Group in the village to learn about the programme.

Just inland is the village of Markopoulo. For anyone in the area on 15th August (Assumption Day) it is a must to visit the church to witness the bizarre snake-handling ritual which takes place! The church is built on the site of an old nunnery and legend has it that, when attacked by pirates the nuns prayed to the Virgin Mary to be transformed into snakes to escape. This duly happened and every year this transformation is commemorated by the miraculous 'return' of the snakes (which are actually harmless!).

Katelios is, with a car, well placed for further exploration of the south. There are plenty of other good beaches and small inland villages in either direction, culminating in the larger seaside village of Skala almost at the south-eastern tip (the nearest thing there is to a 'resort' here).

Almyra Hotel Fiscardo

Located on the hillside a 15 minute walk (800m) from Fiscardo harbour, this highly recommended hotel enjoys stunning views over the sea to Ithaca (and, to the side, Lefkas).

The Almyra is not a large hotel – 27 rooms only – and offers an intimate atmosphere, a high level of (very friendly) service, and all the facilities you should need for a really comfortable stay in this most beautiful part of Kefalonia.

The rooms are on the upper two floors, served by a lift. All are double bedded and possess air conditioning, tea/coffee-making facilities, a mini-bar, TV (BBC World), bathroom with bath or shower, hairdryer and good-sized covered balcony. Wifi is free of charge, and safety deposit boxes are provided in reception (also free). Rooms are light and airy with pretty décor and a classic style of furnishing. All have been recently upgraded and refurbished.

Standard rooms are to the side of the hotel and have sea or garden/hillside views. The Executive rooms are front corner rooms and thus enjoy fine views from their covered balcony to Lefkas in one direction and Ithaca to the other. The Deluxe rooms all face the front and have beautiful views over the green hillside, Fiscardo and the sea to Ithaca from their spacious front terrace. These rooms are larger, with a double sofa-bed for one adult or two smaller children, a bath as well as shower, and upgraded furnishings. The Junior Suites are similar and double-bedded with the bonus of a very big balcony terrace furnished with your own sun beds.

The hotel offers a good buffet breakfast and has a daytime restaurant serving lunch and snacks, and a bar. Picnic baskets can be provided on request for walkers or those renting a motorboat.

Steps lead down to the large freshwater pool below, which measures 15m x 7m (depth 1.0m-2.10m) and has an adjacent children's pool. There is loads of space here on the furnished terrace surrounds, both at pool level and at reception level above.

A complimentary minibus runs to Fiscardo harbour up to five times daily. The nearest beach is lovely Emblissi, a 15 minute walk down hill. The family who run the hotel are linked to one of Fiscardo's best known restaurants where a discount is offered to hotel guests.

Kaminakia Apartments Fiscardo

Kaminakia is that rare find - quietly located accommodation with a decent swimming pool and gorgeous views, yet just a short 10-15 minute walk above the sea to Fiscardo harbour and two beaches, one in either direction.

Kaminakia comprises twelve units built in two terraced rows. The accommodation is older in style and well kept, with traditional raised platform beds, rough-cast whitewashed walls and high wooden ceilings. The studios (nos. 8-12) are very simple and compact and contain an air conditioned double bedroom, a small bathroom with shower, and a kitchenette (mini-oven, rings, fridge) tucked away in an alcove. All units have a safety deposit box and French doors lead to a large private balcony with stunning views out to sea and the island of Ithaca in the distance.

The 1-bedroom apartments (nos. 1-7) are similar but offer more space with the addition of a living room with two divan-beds on fixed base suitable for a young adult and a smaller child.

The large swimming pool measures 12m x 6m (depth 1.30m-1.65m) and has a children's section. Its surrounding terraces are extensive and furnished, and afford yet more magnificent views. Wifi is available free of charge in the pool area.

Although somewhat old fashioned in style, Kaminakia compensates with its excellent location and views, and the pool area is also lovely. The walk to the harbour is delightful, being above the sea and on the flat, other than the final approach to the property which is up a short (70m) but steep driveway. You may swim from the rocks below and there is also a small pebble beach just 5 minutes walk away. Lovely Foki beach is a 10 minute walk in the other direction.

Ionian Emerald Karavomilos, near Sami

One of the newer hotels on the island (fully opened in 2010), the Ionian Emerald is also one of the most comfortable. Located on the seafront in the peaceful hamlet of Karavomilos, the setting is uncommercial and authentically Greek. The small port of Sami, from where boats leave for Ithaca, is a short walk away.

Although comprising only 38 rooms, the hotel has all mod cons and facilities. The Superior rooms are housed in three small 2-storey buildings and have a clean modern style, with light wood furniture and pastel décor. Deluxe rooms are larger, all double-bedded and on the top floor of the main building (served by a lift). Facilities in all room types include air conditioning, sat tv with dvd player, free WiFi access, fridge, hairdryer, safety deposit box, iron and board, hydromassage bath and shower, and good-sized balcony with pool and sea views. Room service is available and some rooms have disabled access.

To the front is a beautiful freshwater pool of c 350 sq m (depth 1.20-1.70m) with plenty of space on the surrounding terrace and comfortable pool furniture - pool towels are provided. There is a children's pool to one side and a pool bar. The main building has lounge, bar and terrace restaurant, and the hotel has a fitness room and spa with a range of treatments available.

Karavomilos has four local tavernas (seasonal but at least one is always open), for a wider range the vibrant small port of Sami has some very good restaurants and can be reached in a pleasant 15-20 minute walk via the footpath above the sea. Famous Antisamos Beach is about a 15 minute drive from Karavomilos and in the other direction Agia Efimia can be reached by car in 10 minutes.

Being next door to the glamorous new Ionian Emerald, this modest and overwhelmingly friendly small hotel shares the benefits of this quiet, attractive and very Greek location in the small settlement of Karavomilos, close to Sami. And guests here can share the benefits of the larger hotel's excellent facilities as both hotels are under common ownership.

The rooms are built around a courtyard and are simply, comfortably furnished – mostly twin bedded, ours all have en suite shower room, air conditioning, fridge, TV, safety deposit box, hairdryer and balcony, with views either over the courtyard, mountains to the rear, or sea to the side (note: sea view rooms are limited and requests cannot always be met).

There is a ground floor lounge (free Wifi here), breakfast room, terrace and bar, and the owner Makis will go out of his way to ensure all his guests are looked after extremely well.

Karavomilos enjoys an authentically Greek village atmosphere, has four local tavernas (seasonal but at least one is always open), one mini-market and an excellent bakery – for a wider range the vibrant small port of Sami has some very good restaurants and supermarkets and can be reached in a pleasant 15-20 minute walk via the footpath above the sea. The seven studios are on the ground and first floors. Added value comes from the fact that there are no additional charges for air-conditioning, WiFi and safety deposit boxes - all are included in the price.

The pair of apartments on the top floor are similar with the addition of a separate living room containing a settee which converts to two full-sized sofa-beds. They have two balconies, each with fine views to the sea over the gardens and countryside.

Gonatas Hotel Agia Efimia

Peacefully located above Agia Efimia bay, a short 10 minute walk to the north of the waterfront and only a minute or two from the pristine white pebbles of Paradissos beach, the Gonatas Hotel occupies a superb position and commands fabulous views across the sea to Sami.

Reception and lounge are on the first floor, reached by a number of steps. The hotel has only 25 rooms, all with air conditioning, Wifi, plasma TV, hairdryer, fridge, shower room and balcony. Furnished in a simple traditional style most of ours possess both a double and a single bed. Sunvil rooms are all front facing on the first or top floor and enjoy fine sea views from their balcony.

The swimming pool is of a good size and popular with residents and non-residents alike.

The 10 minute walk to the village is a pleasant one, along a narrow undulating road which runs above the sea passing a number of other tempting pebble coves along the way. From the small harbour onwards you will find a good choice of tavernas, cafes and village shops.

The Gonatas is essentially a comfortable family-run and friendly small hotel, so although service can sometimes tend to the 'Greek' it is always willing.

We think the location and views here are unbeatable in the area, and would certainly be the envy of many larger establishments.
