

Lefkas

Lefkas, also known as Lefkada, is only just an island. Once joined to the mainland, the Corinthians dug a canal in the 6th century BC. Now a swing-bridge links the two again, which means that on Lefkas you have all the benefits of an island atmosphere together with access to some of the most beautiful parts of western Greece.

Lefkas has a distinctive flavour, partly Ionian, partly Epirot. Tourism has come relatively recently and even Nidri, the only true 'resort' on the island, has retained a Greek character (albeit busy in season).

The east coast is sheltered, pretty and shingly, with pine and olive trees to the water's edge. There are good views too, across to the mainland or the four Prince's Islets in the strait.

The west coast is very different – rugged and open, with sheer white cliffs towering above an azure sea and fabulous beaches, some only reached by boat. The mountainous interior is delightfully green with many working villages to explore. Some, such as Karia, are known for their traditional crafts (in this case embroidery). All can be easily reached by car. Lefkas is noted for its wine, and an annual festival of folk dancing, held in August.

There is plenty to do on Lefkas. A good excursion programme includes boat trips to the island of Meganissi and around the pretty Prince's Islands just offshore (including well known Skorpios), the famous beach of Porto Katsiki, and (by coach) around-the-island. You can rent a mountain bike, a small motor boat, even a skippered yacht.

Nidri

They say Aphrodite was born here; Sappho leapt to her death on Lefkas; and one German archaeologist, having uncovered the remnants of a city dating back to 2000 BC, spent the rest of his days trying to prove that Lefkas was the Ithaca of the Odyssey, and that Homer had it wrong all along! For more visible remains it is best to take a car and go to the mainland – perhaps to Nikopolis, a vast Roman city only partly excavated just to the north of Preveza; or even to Delphi, although we recommend an overnight stay here.

As with all Ionian islands, Lefkas is busy in August. Nevertheless, there are not many Greek islands which have (in effect) direct flights, and yet which have retained their traditions and character to such an extent as Lefkas.

Our chosen areas

Nidri

Halfway down the east coast of Lefkas, Nidri is the island's most popular resort. Nidri is the best place to be if you want easy access to a wide choice of restaurants, some nightlife, an interesting variety of well-priced boat trips and watersports, and has a broad appeal to a range of ages and nationalities.

Its situation is most attractive, at the head of a sheltered bay with mountains behind and looking towards the islands of Meganissi and Skorpis. Although Nidri is not a large, international-style resort – there are no big hotels for example – in season it is busy and enjoys a lively cosmopolitan atmosphere, especially during the evenings along the length of its colourful harbour front.

To the north Nidri has a long, narrow fine-shingle beach from which all manner of watersports are on offer. Small motorboats can be rented for exploration of the nearby islands and coastline. Nidri is also a centre for yachting. The quay is always lively, and the harbour restaurants and cafés are perfect for watching the various comings and goings. In the evenings the atmosphere can be positively cosmopolitan, especially around the traffic-free high street and harbour areas.

For a change of scene, peaceful Meganissi is just 30 minutes by regular ferry, so it is easy to pop over for just a few hours, enough time for a little exploration and leisurely lunch.

Lefkas Town and Agios Ioannis

Lefkas Town on the northern tip has an attractive Greek character and a wide choice of restaurants, smart cafes, lively bars and good shopping. Buses run to all points and there is often something going on (the town is known for its arts and festivals, especially a dance festival in August).

Agios Ioannis, just to the west of town on the other side of the lagoon, is an area of superb long near-white sand/shingle beaches stretching for some 5 kms. Being so close to town they do get understandably busy at peak times, but are so long you can always find a spot to yourself. There are the usual beach tavernas and bars at various points and often a cooling prevailing wind (the area is known for kite-surfing).

The area is flat and therefore good for cycling along a network of country lanes, and there is also a circuit around the lagoon.

Ligia and Nikiana

Ligia is an excellent choice for those who wish to relax away from the crowds yet make the most of what Lefkas has to offer. A few kilometres south of Lefkas Town, it is a quieter, less commercialised area. Its tavernas by the harbour are well known to locals as the places to come to for a good fish meal.

Nikiana, a few kilometres further south, has a variety of restaurants and small shops of its own. Again, the harbour tavernas are probably the best place to enjoy freshly-caught fish.

Both Ligia and Nikiana are close to the mainland, and there are lovely views across the straits to the mountains. As everywhere on Lefkas the surroundings are green and wooded. Beaches here are of the small, pebbly, pretty variety, the sea clean and very sheltered.

This is a particularly good area from which to get out and about – buses will take you to Lefkas Town or to Nidri and nearly all excursions pick up from here. Alternatively, rent a mountain bike.

Recommended for a relaxed, very Greek holiday, with plenty to do should you so wish.

Mikros Yialos

The deep indented bay of Mikros Yialos to the south of Lefkas hides the finest beach on the east coast – a long wide stretch of gleaming white pebble mixed with sand which shelves into the beautifully clear turquoise water. Although the beach is inevitably busy on Greek high days and holidays, most visitors come for the day only as accommodation is still limited here.

Also known as Poros, after the traditional village high on the hillside above, Mikros Yialos is some 20 minutes drive to the south of Nidri, the last 7 kms via a long and winding road which snakes down the wooded mountainside.

Although its setting lends Mikros Yialos a somewhat 'away from it all' atmosphere, especially in the evenings, close to the beach are some five tavernas and a mini-market. Boat hire is available if you wish to explore the stunning coastline here.

A peaceful retreat with a super beach in gloriously scenic surroundings, our hotel here is, we believe, the most exclusive on Lefkas. As Mikros Yialos is secluded, car hire is recommended should you wish to see more of the island.

Palm Trees Hotel Nidri

This super little hotel ticks all the right Sunvil boxes – right on the beach; family-run and friendly; modern, comfortable rooms with brilliant views; yet within a few minutes’ walk of Nidri’s atmospheric waterfront and a wide enough choice of restaurants, café-bars and shops to satisfy all tastes.

The hotel’s 16 rooms are on the first and second (top) floors, served by a lift. Rooms have been completely refurbished (2014) to offer simple smart modern furnishings and fashionably muted decor. All possess twin or double bed (some also have a sofa-bed for a third person), air conditioning, mini-fridge, TV (BBC World), telephone, safety-deposit box (free of charge), updated shower room and generous front covered balcony with retractable sun-blind - the views from here over the gardens to the sea and the scattering of pretty off-shore islands are stunning!

The ground floor garden terrace is where a continental breakfast is taken each morning. In the daytime the hotel’s snack bar means you can enjoy a drink, an ice cream or a light meal served to you either on the terrace or in the pretty gardens leading onto the beach where sunbeds are available at a local charge.

The family who own and run the hotel (Dina and Nikos) have made many British friends over the years, and so you should not be surprised to read that Palm Trees has built up a very loyal clientele with many regular guests, the highest recommendation of all.

Being directly on the beach and with the benefit of a lift the hotel is very suitable for those with mobility difficulties.

Daglas Beach House Nidri

Individual houses right on the beach, yet in a central but quiet location close to all resort facilities, are difficult to find so we are very pleased to offer Daglas Beach House. It is a simple old-style little Greek house, with a typically colourful garden leading directly to the sea.

The house is compact and comprises three air conditioned twin bedrooms, a new (2017) large modern shower room with wc and a separate smaller ensuite shower/wc to one of the bedrooms, a separate kitchen with a full cooker, hob and fridge, and a lovely wide covered front terrace above the garden with beautiful views over the sea to pretty Madouri island just off-shore. Facilities include TV, iron and board, hairdryer and safety deposit box (no charge). Four sun beds are provided for terrace, garden or beach use.

The house is very simply furnished and has a traditional blue and white décor and colour scheme.

A few minutes' walk along the beach brings you to Nidri's attractive bustling harbour front or, via the small lane to one side of the house, to the centre of this small resort where you will find a wide array of restaurants, café-bars and shops. Water sports are also close to hand.

A very sweet simple little beach house, in a location which is hard to beat and suitable for those with mobility difficulties as there are just a few steps up to the terrace.

Air-conditioning: Available at a local charge of €8 per day (3 AC units).

Orion Suites Nidri

If you are looking for the best in Nidri then the Orion should suit. Directly on the beach, and with a pool to boot, we believe the recently built Suites here offer the highest standards in the village. The nine Suites are housed in a separate 3-storey building to the rear of the main hotel, with a pretty garden between the two. They are less than a minute's walk from the main road in one direction (5-10 mins to the centre and harbour) and just 50m from the beach in the other. The Suites are very spacious, open-plan and beautifully furnished in a classic style. All possess double or twin beds (with space for an extra folding bed), air conditioning, a fridge, tea/coffee-making equipment, a room-safe (€2 a day), hair-dryer, flat-screen TV (BBC World) and a large bathroom, most with a full bath as well as shower. All too have good balcony space with views over the garden and pool to the sea and off-shore islands or to the mountains behind Nidri. In front of the main building, where a buffet breakfast is laid out each morning, is the 100 sq m freshwater pool (depth 1m-2m) with snack bar to one side (free Wifi in this area) and decked seating above the beach. Really top quality, and we think exceptional value for the 4 star standards on offer here.

Air Conditioning: available at a local charge of 5 Euros per day.

Beautiful lawns and gardens front the building which houses eight apartment suites on its ground and first floors. Common facilities include the large pool (18m x 8m, depth 0.80m-2.20m), a BBQ and free use of a washing machine and bikes. Although you should not expect hotel levels of service, the owners are always on hand if you need anything. There is a mini-market just 100m distant. Lively Lefkas Town is a short walk away and you will find a good choice of shops, supermarkets, cafes and restaurants within a 15-20 minute stroll (no hills).
