

Ammouliani

stocked mini-markets, and even an ATM.

But the jewel in Ammouliani's crown is its string of wonderful white-sand beaches shelving gently into calm sheltered aquamarine waters. You could be in the Caribbean! A car is not necessary as the island is so small and the beaches are all walkable (max. 3½-4 kms from the village) - most have sun beds and a taverna. However you can also reach the beaches by water taxi (seasonal) or hired motor boat - and don't forget to try the wonderful horse-drawn 'beach bus' which runs from the port to Alykes (cost €2 last year)!

Of course Ammouliani is far from being a secret to the Greeks and the island receives plenty of visitors from mid-June to early September, including visitors from eastern Europe. Contrastingly, out of the main season the island can be very quiet, especially in May and from mid-September onwards when not all tavernas or beach facilities may operate.

There is only one excursion possible from Ammouliani but it is not to be missed - the spectacular cruise along the western Athos coastline to view the historic monasteries from the sea. These depart daily from Ammouliani (via Ouranoupolis - you will have a little time here to explore or visit the museum should you wish) and cost 25 euros per person last year.

A 40 minute drive to the south of Olymbiada, not far from the small town of Ouranoupolis (known as the gateway to Mount Athos), followed by a 15 minute ferryboat ride, brings you to sweet little Ammouliani, Halkidiki's only island.

Ammouliani measures just 4.5 sq kms. and has one village (pop 542 at the last count).

Built on a small hill above the port, the village is one of the friendliest you could come across and should provide all you need for your stay. It has four taverna restaurants, a couple of pizzerias and cafe-bars, a number of surprisingly well

AMMOULIANI INFORMATION

Getting to Ammouliani

Daily flights Gatwick to Thessaloniki (regional flights available from MAN, EMA, LTN) - odd durations possible. Then 2 hours transfer to Tripiti port and 15 mins ferry to Ammouliani where you will be met and taken to your accommodation (5-10 mins. on foot - your luggage will be transferred separately). Please note, as we cannot pre-purchase ferry tickets on this route the ferry ticket is not included and to be purchased on board (cost €2.50 per person one way last year). On your return the reverse applies. There will probably be a short wait for the ferry on arrival but they run quite frequently in the summer months.

Multi-Centre Options

With any of our Halkidiki resort areas (note: Olymbiada is easiest and cheapest to combine with Ammouliani - Aftos has an expensive mid-holiday taxi transfer due to the distance involved). A few nights at the start or end of your holiday can be easily arranged in Thessaloniki - see page 240 - and also at the wonderful 5 star Imaret Hotel in Kavala (page 241).

Representative

We have a local agent based in Thessaloniki who can always be contacted but no representative in our Halkidiki resort areas. However, English is spoken at all our hotels, who are always happy to give local information and assistance.

Stay in a Mount Athos Monastery

For details of this unique opportunity - if you are male! - please see page 116 and our website.

Kastalia Hotel Ammouliani Island

This very sweet little hotel is run by the charming Sisi, a bustling helpful mine of information who cannot do enough for her guests. It is in a quiet location in a back street a short 3 minute walk up the small hill from the harbour.

The 8 apartment-style rooms here are spacious and simply but attractively furnished. All possess twin or double beds, TV, AC, basic kitchenette (2 rings, fridge), shower room and good-sized covered balcony.

To the rear of the hotel is a common seating area with tables, chairs and sofas, and here Sisi will serve a hearty breakfast with many homemade items and traditional Greek specialities.

You could not stay in a more welcoming or friendly small hotel.

Dominici Hotel Ammouliani Island

The fact that the owner is an interior designer is in evidence throughout this small, very pretty hotel. It enjoys a great location, just back from the old fishing harbour and sandy beach.

The hotel has only 6 rooms on its upper two floors. Each one has a different style of furnishing and decor, but they are all lovely!

All possess an iron-wrought double bedstead, TV, AC, fridge, mozzie-netted windows and balcony doors, modern shower room (some with bath) and large balcony, those on the top floor having some sea or side-sea views.

You can be on the beach in less than a minute. It is a 2-3 minute walk to the square at the top of the hill, and the same again down the other side to the centre and restaurants.

Very high standards in a superb location.

Breakfast: if required breakfast can be prebooked at a cost of £40 per week and is taken in a nearby café.
