

The Pelion

Little wonder that the ancient gods chose the Pelion – home of the Centaurs (Kentavros) – as the place for their weddings and celebrations; for here is a near-perfect synthesis of mountain, forest and sea.

Fresh and green year-round, the peninsula is dominated by mountains reaching a height of some 1600 metres and covered with pine, oak, fir, plane and chestnut. Views are dramatic, particularly on the northeast where mountains plunge dizzily to the sea. The western side is gentler – its hills covered with olive trees and shrubs – yet still remarkably attractive.

Pelion's preserved mountain villages are a joy. Clinging to wooded slopes high above the sea, they share a unique architectural tradition and are amongst the most beautiful in Greece. The old stone-built mansions, with their grey slate roofs and overhanging balconies, blend with their surroundings. Often the only sounds are a babbling brook or birdsong. Everywhere are trees, shrubs, plants and flowers.

The coastline hides some excellent beaches, often of a coarse sand/fine shingle which makes for excellent swimming in clear water. Foreign tourism is still fairly undeveloped, and the small seaside villages – quiet for most of the year, busy over weekends and local holiday periods – remain reassuringly Greek!

Because Pelion is still pretty virgin territory it does not have the touristic infrastructure of more established areas. Money exchange and ATMs can be hard to find away from Volos (so take a good supply of Euros with you); the bus service limited and English not universally spoken. Excursions are also limited and run only subject to numbers from Kala Nera and Afissos.

With all this in mind we would strongly recommend you pre-book a car, especially for those choosing to stay in the smaller, more remote villages (i.e. those other than Kala Nera and Afissos). If you don't mind some very winding roads, it would be a pity not to discover the whole of Pelion. Even Meteora and Delphi are within reach.

A visit to Pelion will refresh the palate of even the most frequent Greek traveller. It did ours, and that takes some doing!

Western Pelion Kala Nera, Afissos, Lefokastro & Milina

Transfer time 1½-2½ hours from Volos

The western side of the Pelion has lovely views (and gorgeous sunsets) over the Pagasitic Gulf to the mountains of the mainland. Although heavily wooded, like all Pelion, the west is more typically Mediterranean: here olive and cypress predominate over oak and chestnut.

Although the name Kala Nera ('Good Waters') originally referred to the many springs in the area, it could equally apply to the sea here. Directly on the gulf some 18 kms to the south of Volos, the village has lush wooded surrounds and backs a gently shelving sand/shingle beach which has a Blue Flag. Kala Nera's long tree-lined promenade shades an array of restaurants and cafes, perfect spots from which to admire the sunsets here for which the area is famed. It is also not far from the start of the very scenic heritage railway which runs at weekends from Ano Lehonía up the mountain to the gorgeously traditional village of Milia. As everywhere in Pelion there are good walking opportunities - perhaps along the coast to the beach at Boufa.

Kala Nera is a relaxed seaside village with a very Greek atmosphere, a good choice of authentic restaurants and small shops, with some life to it (in a 'bustling taverna' kind of way), especially in season.

Afissos is a small, quite smart little resort village and popular with local Greeks from Volos at weekends as it boasts three good beaches. It is said that Jason called in here for freshwater supplies before setting sail on his epic journey.

The village has a small fishing harbour at its entrance. Its long seafront is where most of the dozen restaurants are to be found, along with a few cafés, mini-markets and bakery. At its heart is a shady central square with attendant church.

Gently shelving beaches lie to either side, a mix of shingle and coarse sand, which get very busy at weekends and in Greek holiday periods - there are several beach clubs, each of which offers free sun beds to its patrons.

Both Afissos and Kala Nera have a reasonable bus service to Volos. Last year excursions ran around the Pelion by coach, and there was also a popular 'around the gulf' boat trip.

An hour's beautiful walk (or a ten minute drive) south along the narrow country lanes through the olive groves brings you to Lefokastro. This seaside hamlet is pretty as a postcard - a delightfully tranquil wooded bay, with a ribbon of houses fronting the water and a safe fine-shingle beach. Last summer a pair of local tavernas operated, joined by a third in high season.

Lefokastro offers an authentically Greek 'away from it all' holiday in unspoilt green surroundings, with good swimming and fewer visitors. The countryside is hilly and full of olive trees, so offers fine walking (gentler than in the east).

Milina further to the south is larger (not difficult!), albeit still pretty and quiet. The village enjoys fine views over a crystalline sea to the small islets of Alatas and Prasouda, each of which is home to an old (now deserted) monastery. Milina's long promenade above the sea is lined with a good choice of tavernas and cafes, and the village has a number of small shops. Narrow shingle beaches lie to either side. There is a bus service to Volos (up to 5 times daily in season), and a car will enable a visit to Trikeri island (known for its fish tavernas) just off Pelion's southern tip, as well as a thorough exploration of the beautiful south, which hides some truly spectacular beaches on its eastern side.

South Pelion Katigiorgis & Lafkos

Drive time 2-2½ hours from Volos

The wooded hills of the south-eastern corner of Pelion are less steep than the more mountainous north and the area more sparsely populated. The distance from Volos means it lessens the Greek holiday crowds who would otherwise flock to the beautiful sandy beaches and coves here (undoubtedly amongst the peninsula's loveliest), although day-trippers may visit from Skiathos for a few hours by excursion boat.

The pick of the places to stay is the small seaside hamlet of Katigiorgis. We have heard it called Kati-gorgeous as it is so pretty! Comprising simply a compact but delightfully sandy beach facing Skiathos - the bay enclosed by rocky arms sheltering the village fishing boats - and a cluster of houses, its two tavernas are known for fresh fish.

There is also a café with WiFi and a mini-market - all you should need for a complete escape. Some fine beaches lie in either direction, ranging from tiny coves to longer stretches of sand, and can be found on foot (walkers only). A car is included in our holidays here and enables you to discover more wonderful beaches to the north and south.

Inland, the pretty hill village of Lafkos, has a lovely traditional main square and you will find five village tavernas, as well as a traditional cheese maker, a sculpture gallery and (weirdly) a radio museum! It is a wonderful base for walking - many local stone paths start from here - and we would urge walkers to visit the excellent website by Friends of the Kalderimi. The nearest beaches are a 10 minute drive away to the west near Milina - however a very wide choice of some truly fabulous sandy beaches can be found within a 20-30 minute drive.

Althea Traditional Mansion Portaria

Among Pelion's many attractions its preserved villages should be high on the list. On the slopes of Mount Pelion, the distinctive architecture of the old mansions blends harmoniously with plane tree-shaded squares, forested surrounds, traditional tavernas and vistas of mountain and sea.

Portaria is the closest of these villages to Volos and popular with Greek and foreign visitors alike. Its altitude of 650m (over 2000 feet) ensures a respite from the summer heat as well as wonderful views over Volos and the Pagasitic Gulf, just 12 kms by road below.

The village has narrow cobbled streets and a good choice of restaurants and cafes – those in the main square shaded by an 800-year old plane tree – as well as small shops selling local produce and crafts.

The Althea is a perfect blend of modern comforts in historic surroundings. Rooms are in the original building, which dates from 1830 and is listed, or in the building next door. All rooms are richly furnished in a classic style. The centre of the village is a couple of minutes' walk away.

All 11 rooms possess Wifi, hairdryer, mini-bar/fridge, TV and a modern walk-in shower room. Standard rooms are in the original building and are double-bedded with ceiling fan (AC is really not required at this altitude) and window with garden views. Superior rooms are in the newer building and are mostly double-bedded with AC and a furnished balcony affording beautiful views over Volos and the gulf.

Due to the hilly location and cobbled approach a stay here would not be suited to anyone with walking difficulties.

Seralis Hotel Koropi

The Seralis is a very friendly small hotel in the west coast hamlet of Koropi, between the larger seaside villages of Kala Nera (3 kms) and Afissos (2 kms). With only 8 rooms here and lush green countryside all around, the hotel engenders an intimate atmosphere, and offers plenty of space in which to relax in the pretty gardens and attractive pool area.

Rooms are not large but prettily furnished in a fresh bright style and well equipped. All possess double bed, AC, TV, mini-bar/fridge, tea-making equipment, safety deposit box, hairdryer, shower room and covered balcony with country, sea, pool or mountain views.

Above the pool the hotel's snack bar serves drinks and light meals through the day, and dinner in the evenings if pre-ordered. The owner, Maria Seradilou, is a very good cook – so half board may be an idea – and also provides a rich breakfast buffet that includes many home-made specialities.

In fact the way Maria looks after both her hotel and her guests, in the best tradition of small and friendly Greek hotels, ensures many guests return every year.

Lovely Paradisos beach is 600m away - a 7 minute walk - and has (in season) sun-beds and a café/snack bar. However for brighter lights and a wide choice of tavernas and shops Afissos and Kala Nera can be quickly reached by car in around 5 minutes, and the famous mountain village of Milies is a 10-15 minute drive.

Half Board: £112 per week

Pegasus Hotel Kala Nera

The friendly, family-run Pegasus is a well-liked small hotel in the heart of Kala Nera, just 30m from the sea and the start of the village's main beach. It has a lift, so would be a perfect choice for anyone with limited mobility looking for a comfortable base with everything close to hand and on the flat.

The hotel has 20 attractively furnished rooms, not large but comfortable with everything you should need. Most are twin bedded and all possess AC, TV, mini-fridge, safety deposit box, hairdryer, shower room and small balcony with sea, side-sea, village or mountain views.

Although central in the village, the hotel is set a little back from the seafront and so it is not noisy. To the front is a spacious terrace for the hotel's popular café where breakfast can be taken. There is also a seating area above the sea: the perfect spot for a traditional 'ouzo mezedes' whilst viewing the sun setting over the gulf, which is often spectacular from here.

Kala Nera means 'good water' and you will find a clean sea just a stone's throw from your room. The beach here has sun-beds and umbrellas for a small daily charge. A wide choice of local tavernas, cafes and small shops can be found within a very short walk in either direction from the hotel.

Agnanti Apartments Afissos

We consider the Agnanti to be amongst the pick of Afissos' accommodation. Here you will find a good levels of comfort, plenty of space and lovely views together with the services of a small hotel, including reception and breakfast (if required) served to your room.

They are just a couple of minutes' walk up from the waterfront, although the elevated location via a steep village street or steps up the hill means that they are not suitable for anyone with fitness or walking difficulties.

All units are well equipped and nicely furnished, and possess air conditioning, a kitchenette with mini-oven and fridge, a shower/wc, hairdryer, Sat TV (BBC World), room safe (€2 per day), sofa-bed and a balcony or terrace. The first floor studio has twin beds and a full sea view balcony; the cool garden studio below has a king-size double bed and side sea views from its lovely large patio terrace, which is furnished with table, chairs and umbrella and shaded by fruit trees.

The apartments are first floor and have the addition of a spacious living room, also air conditioned, containing a full-size double sofa-bed. They enjoy magnificent views (and sunsets) over the rooftops and across the gulf.

Agnanti is almost exactly at the midway point of the village, so you will find a good choice of tavernas, cafes and small shops close to hand. Popular Abovos beach is no more than a 5 minute walk, and you will find two other very nice beaches - Lagoudi and Kaliferi - within a 10 minute walk in the other direction.

Please note that all Afissos beaches get very busy at weekends and during Greek holiday periods.

Damouchari Bay (note: this is not the hotel)

Damouchari Hotel Damouchari

This atmospheric hotel is located in one of the most beautiful places on the peninsula; the tiny hamlet of Damouchari. In a very peaceful setting (Damouchari is car-free) the hotel is just a minute or three's walk from the natural harbour, the white pebble beach, the two mini-markets and the four tavernas here.

The 15 units are built amongst luxuriant gardens; a mix of rooms (sold with breakfast) and studios and apartments (sold on a self catering basis).

The three BB rooms are at the lowest levels of the gardens near the reception. All possess AC, a double bed, shower room, tea-making facilities and a garden patio.

The studios are similar with the addition of light cooking facilities and fridge. The pair on the first floor share a large common terrace with views to the sea through the trees.

The maisonettes comprise a ground floor living area containing a sofa-bed for one or two children and kitchen area with steps up to one or two bedrooms above – they are open plan. Each one has a garden sitting-out area to the front.

The rooms are somewhat eclectically furnished, often with objets d'art or local antiques. In the reception there is a bar and, at the top of the lush grounds, the hotel's freshwater pool is set in a real garden with lemon and olive trees.

Walking is of course a major attraction here - perhaps up to the large village of Tsangarada above, or along the coast to the beautiful beach of Fakistra. Brighter lights and a choice of some fine beaches lies just a 20 minute walk away in the small resort of Agios Ioannis.

Note: on arrival and departure guests will need to walk for 3-4 minutes from/ to the village parking area via a rough mule-path down the hill. Single rooms are accommodated on the first floor of the hotel's taverna above the sea.

Rep service: please note that due to the distances from our main resort areas our Pelion representative will not be visiting this hotel.

Lefokastro Beach Cottage Lefokastro

This beautifully modernised fisherman's cottage is just 10 metres from the sea at the start of Lefokastro's beach.

The house is open-plan and air conditioned (included). The living room contains sofas and tv, with tiled shower room off and an archway leading to the fully fitted modern kitchen with electric oven, hob and full fridge. Other facilities include an iron and board, hairdryer and WiFi.

Steps lead up from the living room to the sleeping gallery above with a double platform bed.

The house is very nicely restored and furnished, the thick stone walls and wooden ceiling keeping it cool and combining well with the modern comfortable furnishings, high quality fittings and tasteful decor. There is no front terrace or balcony due to the age and location of the house but a large picture window in the living room does look to the sea. Between the two is the narrow beach road, a cul-de-sac.

The rear garden patio has a BBQ, space for sunbathing and a seating area shaded by a pergola. There is natural shade on the beach to the front provided by tamarisk trees, and here sun beds are provided for guests.

Dimitra's Apartment Milina

This independent 2-bedroom apartment (more like a small cottage) is above the sea just to the south of Milina, and has a small shingle beach handy located just over the road. Dimitra's elevated location ensures fine views but steps up from the road means it is unsuited to anyone with mobility difficulties.

The interior comprises two double bedrooms (one with an extra single bed), separate kitchen with 2-ring mini-oven and fridge (note: cold water tap only), nice bathroom with walk-in shower, and large covered veranda for al fresco dining with lovely views to the sea and Alatas island just off-shore. There is also an open sun terrace to the side with stone table and seating under the shade of an olive, and a BBQ. Facilities include AC (both bedrooms), TV with DVD player, hairdryer and Wifi.

Dimitra's is of a very high standard, with light modern colours and well furnished with care and taste - quite artistic in many ways. Should our apartment be full we have access to a similar one next door

The pool is a little away from the house and measures 11m x 5.5m (depth 1.0-2.20m). It is shared between the two neighbouring cottages.

The small shingle beach below has very sheltered clean waters. You will find a handy taverna restaurant and a mini-market for basics just around the corner just one minute's walk away. Pretty Milina is 2 kms up the road (a 20 minute walk) so car hire is recommended.

Athina Cottages Katigiorgis

These four delightful cottages are newly built (2017) and set in private gardens at the back of the tiny hamlet of Katigiorgis. An easy walk of two minutes leads to the idyllic waterfront with its beach of golden sand, and a pair each of tavernas, cafes and mini-markets.

The cottages are built in the attractive traditional Pelion style, with sloping grey slate roofs, and spacious. Each one is open plan and can sleep 2 adults plus 2 children on sofa beds. They are a mix of double or twin beds. A good sized covered terrace overlooks the garden area dotted with olive trees (please note, at the time our photographs were taken the garden was not yet fully planted, it should look much better by the start of the season!).

Furnishings and decor are light, modern and comfortable, and each cottage has air conditioning, hairdryer, iron, TV and Wifi. The kitchens are equipped with a 3-ring mini-oven, kettle, coffee machine, toaster and a full size fridge. All have a bathroom with shower.

Katigiorgis is off the beaten track and is an excellent location for those looking to escape for a quiet holiday in very pretty Greek surroundings and with access to some truly fabulous beaches.

Note: car hire is included here. If you do not require a car we can provide taxi transfers and/or have a car delivered. However this option will likely be more expensive due to the distance from Volos airport (2½ hrs). For Manchester clients coming via Skiathos Katigiorgis is only a 20 minute drive from the port of Platanias.

Lafkos

Lagou Raxi Country Hotel Lafkos

Lagou Raxi (pronounced 'Rahi') is a stylish country hotel situated on the edge of the picturesque and unspoilt village of Lafkos high amongst the green rolling hills of south Pelion. It is a wonderful location for walkers (see resort into pages) and for those who love a view, as the hotel has gloriously sweeping views over the Pagasitic Gulf.

The hotel has 20 rooms, family rooms and suites. Completed to a high modern standard, each room has its own character and decor. All possess double or twin beds (four-posters in some Junior Suites), bath or shower, ceiling fan, TV and room safe. Tea-making facilities can be provided on request. All ours have a sea view balcony or terrace and suites have a mini-bar. Many rooms can interconnect via a removable balcony divider, and some are adapted for the disabled.

Below is the good-sized swimming pool (towels provided). The hotel has a restaurant (home grown organic local produce), a library, a cozy lounge bar, beautiful Mediterranean gardens and terraces.

A 5-10 minute walk brings you to the heart of Lafkos where you will find five tavernas (see resort into pages). With a car you are well placed for exploration of beautiful south Pelion - and the fact that the hotel's rooms are individually named after different local beaches tells you that you'll need a 3 week stay to get around every one!
