

A landscape photograph showing a field of yellow wildflowers in the foreground, a line of trees and houses in the middle ground, and a blue sky with scattered white clouds.

The coastal region of the Alentejo, the Costa Azul, is still practically deserted and like the Algarve 40 years ago, with just a handful of pretty seaside villages such as Vila Nova de Milfontes, Zambujeira do Mar and Porto Covo with their fine sandy beaches.

Fortified Villages

Along the Spanish border you will discover atmospheric, historical fortified villages of which Marvão, Castelo de Vide, Monsaraz and Elvas are all worth a visit.

Coastal Alentejo

The Costa Azul offers fine, and relatively deserted, sand beaches, pretty whitewashed villages and two distinct walking trails – the Rota Vicentina.

Herdade das Barradas da Serra, Grândola

This family-run property, set within two 800 hectare estates, has about 600 sheep as well as many wild boar and hectares of cork oak and olive trees. The guest rooms are located in two converted farm buildings and are beautifully appointed and furnished in a rustic style. With the town of Grândola a short drive away (5-minutes), marked walking trails, bicycle hire, an outdoor swimming pool and large grounds, a stay here can be as active or relaxed as desired.

Alqueva Lake

Alqueva is the largest artificial lake in Europe (93km long), built on the Guadiana River. You can go kayaking, sailing and water-skiing on the lake as well as sunbathe on one of two artificial sand beaches at Monsaraz and Mourão.

Live-aboard Motorboats, Amieira Marina

The motorboats, on Lake Alqueva, sleep from 2 to 10 people and have one to five bedrooms. They are easy to use, have a top speed of 6 miles per hour and the Marina staff offer training (c.90-minutes) before setting off. The majority of the beds are doubles and there are only two models which have single beds. All the villages have docking facilities and each night after mooring the boat you can walk to the village (c.1-2km) to enjoy the delightful local cuisine. Note: Some restaurants will also deliver meals to the boats on request.

Accommodation: 7 boat types (sleeping 2 to 10 persons), each equipped with GPS, sonar and a communication system.

Herdade do Vau, Quintos

The original 19th century manor house was in ruins and in 2012 the owner decided to renovate the property and has brought to life the traditional building in the most sensitive manner. Interestingly, parts of the structure which were added - bathrooms for instance - are finished in smooth, polished concrete to indicate a departure from the original. The result is an airy cool structure with large bedrooms from which there are wonderful views over the surrounding landscape. From the terraces and the large swimming pool the views are to the Guadiana River, vineyards and pastures.

Accommodation: 12 air-conditioned units including standard twin rooms, superior double rooms and apartments (one-bedroom and two-bedroom)

Évora

There is plenty to explore in this UNESCO World Heritage city. Évora is one of Portugal's oldest and most interesting cities, full of narrow streets, fine buildings, old palaces, churches and fountains.

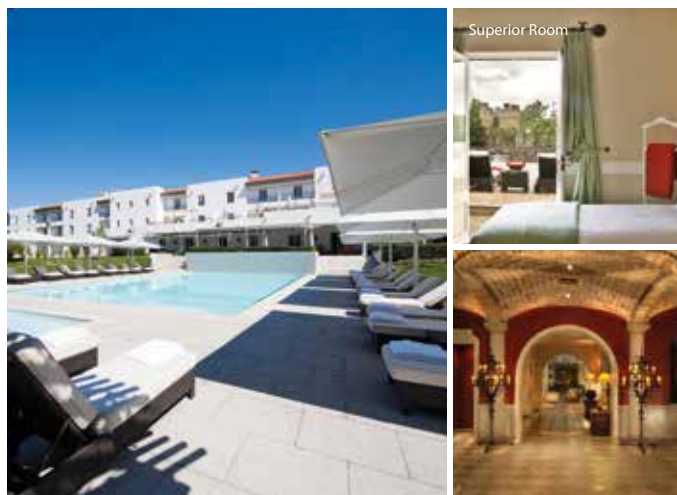

M'Ar de Ar Muralhas Hotel, Évora

This charming hotel is located within the ancient 14th century city walls of Évora, a UNESCO World Heritage site. The hotel has been decorated in a modern simple style, employing vibrant colours to create an inviting atmosphere of warmth and comfort. Novel objets d'art adorn the walls, adding further to the charm of the hotel by reflecting the rural life of the Alentejo region. The restaurant serves traditional Alentejo cuisine with a good choice of Portuguese wines to complement any dish.

Convento do Espinheiro Hotel, Évora

The property is a national monument and one of the most famous monasteries in Portugal. Legend has it that there was an apparition of the Virgin Mary, above a thorn bush (espinheiro) in the early 1400s. By 1458 the site had become a centre of pilgrimage and a church and monastery had been built. Now a luxury hotel and spa, the hotel is set in 20 acres of herb gardens, olive groves and vineyards and has been sensitively renovated to reflect the splendour of the original building.

Pousada Convento de Vila Viçosa

Pousadas of the Alentejo

Alcácer do Sal – Vila Viçosa – Marvão

Itinerary: 8 days / 7 nights

The beauty and diversity of the Alentejo landscape is second to none in Portugal. Combined with the quality of archaeological, monumental, architectural and ethnographic heritage, it makes the Alentejo a delight to explore. Our suggested itinerary below is not set and can be amended to suit individual requirements.

Day One: On arrival at Lisbon airport, collect your hire car and drive to the town of Alcácer do Sal (88.8km).

Day Two: Day at leisure. Explore the undeveloped Atlantic coastline between Troia and the Cape of Sines with its kilometres of uninterrupted beaches. Further south is the charming coastal resort of Porto Covo (80km) of which the main square is considered one of the jewels of popular Portuguese architecture. There is also a fine sand beach, an abundance of excellent fish restaurants and magnificent sunsets over the Atlantic.

Day Three: After breakfast, drive across the plains of the Alentejo – especially beautiful in spring when the wild flowers are in bloom – to Vila Viçosa (155km). The route will highlight the diversity of the region from coastal villages in the west, to the agricultural plains and vineyards of its centre and the lofty mountain peaks and historic hilltop villages in the east.

For those interested in learning more about Alentejo wine, the Cartuxa Winery on the outskirts of Évora is worth a visit. In the vineyards, Roupeiro, Antão Vaz and Arinto grapes are cultivated to produce white wines, whilst Aragonze, Trincadeira and Tinta Caiada grapes are used for making red wines.

Day Four: Day at leisure. Visit the medieval hilltop town of Monsaraz, one of the most picturesque settlements in the region with white-washed houses, many adorned with colourful flower boxes, narrow cobbled streets and wonderful panoramas.

Day Five: After breakfast, head to Marvão (95.9km), perched high on the mountainside and affording spectacular views of the surrounding natural landscape.

Day Six: Day at leisure. The area of Marvão offers dramatic scenery, ancient villages and fortified towns – an ideal location for keen photographers and painters to practice their art.

Day Seven: Day at leisure. For outdoor enthusiasts the Natural Park of Serra de São Mamede, close to Marvão (8km) is ideal for hiking, cycling and bird watching. Birds such as Bonelli's Eagle, the Griffin Vulture, Sparrow hawks, the Short-toed Eagle, Black Kites and Eagle Owls can all be spotted within the reserve.

Day Eight: After breakfast, drive to Lisbon airport for your return flight home.

Pousada Castelo de Alcácer do Sal

Rota Vicentina: Self-guided walks

Zambujeira do Mar – Pedralva

Itinerary: 8 days / 7 nights

With fabulous beaches, isolated fishing villages and 75-hectares of protected flora, fauna and coastline, this is a destination with immense appeal for nature lovers and best explored on foot. The Rota Vicentina has two walking trails: the Historical Way (240km) stretches from Santiago do Cacém (Alentejo) to Cabo de São Vicente (Algarve); and Fisherman's Trail (110km) which meanders along the Atlantic coast from Porto Covo (Alentejo) to Cabo de São Vicente (Algarve). Each walk has been divided into shorter trails to allow for a day's exploration.

Day One: On arrival at Faro airport, collect your hire car and drive to the Herdade do Touril (142km).

Day Two: Almogrove to Zambujeira do Mar (22km)

After breakfast, take a taxi from Herdade do Touril to Almogrove (payable locally). At Almogrove the 'Fisherman's Way' runs along the coastline to Zambujeira do Mar passing by small fishing harbours, reddish sand dunes and lunar landscapes. The marked trail is 22km (7 hours), and although steep and soft underfoot in places, is a pleasure to navigate.

Day Three: Day at leisure. Discover the cork fields, olive trees and vineyards of the Alentejo interior. The region, which covers a third of the country, is remarkably unspoiled and has a carpet of vibrant wild flowers in the spring.

Day Four: Zambujeira do Mar to Odeceixe (18km)

Depart, on foot, following the marked 'Fisherman's Trail' to Odeceixe. On this 18km trail (5½ hours) you will pass four beaches before reaching the fishing harbour of Azenha do Mar. One of the most outstanding views in the entire region – Odeceixe beach seen from the majestic Ponta em Branco – can be enjoyed during the walk. Return by taxi (payable locally).

Day Five: Drive south to Pedralva (67.4km). The philosophy at the Aldeia da Pedralva is about 'switching-off' and relaxing: reading, playing cards, talking to fellow guests, swimming and walking. The property offers a range of activities from dolphin watching and boat excursions to birdwatching.

Day Six: Carrapateira to Pedralva (11km)

Take a taxi to Carrapateira (payable locally). The 'Fisherman's Trail' is marked back to Pedralva, a walk of 11km (4 hours), passing through small coastal and rural communities.

Day Seven: Pedralva to Vila do Bispo (21km)

Today's 21km walk (6½ hours) is to Vila do Bispo where you will see deep ravines, verdant hills, sheltered white sand beaches and the wild Alentejo coastline. Return by taxi (payable locally).

Day Eight: After breakfast, drive to Faro airport for your return flight home.
